

Fox Tales

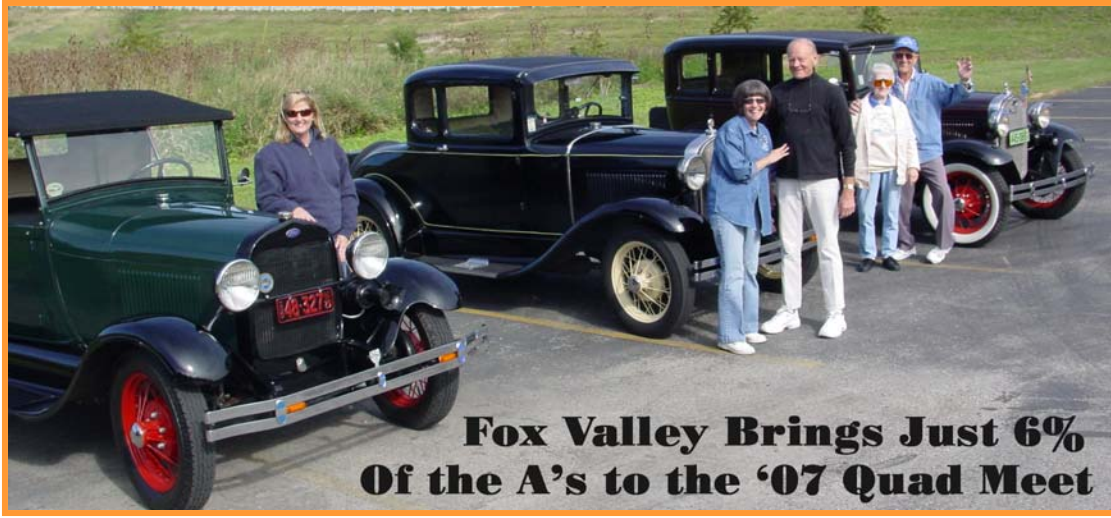

Child and Family Services was notified when a small one, apparently deserted, turned up all alone at the Maple Park Parade. Dressed in pink pj's with a "Happiness is a Model A Ford" button pinned to the front, the toddler was disoriented and appeared to be very shy. He would not even talk to Butch, who was wearing his "Grandpa" hat. Almost as soon as the little guy appeared, he was gone. Someone said the corvette people had taken him, but at least one spectator thought she saw him leave behind a Harley Davidson-riding lady with intricate tattoos on her arms and shoulders. If you see the little tyke, please contact Carol McMahon.

Maple Park Turns Out To Cheer Fox Valley

McMahon's (big) trophy-winning Blindback led the Fox Valley Chapter's troupe of Model A's through Maple Park in the annual Labor Day kickoff parade. Nemechek's Sport Coupe was second, followed by Winslow's Open Cab, Flammang's Town Sedan, and Reiser's Steel Top Pickup. Beleca's Coupe was the cheese. Plenty of space remained for some open "family" cars, but the crowd was denied the sight some Model A kids tucked into a rumble seat. A family-filled Phaeton would have been welcome, too. After all, if a Model A Club has kids (or grandkids), they should be flaunted!

Well-known Model T (and A and V8) fancier, Lowell Reiser, just about had Bob McMahon convinced to swap for a 1/5 scale replica of a '14 Roadster. However, when the owner of the red car came to dicker, Bob could not be located. (See picture and sidebar story.)

Fox Valley Brings Just 6% Of the A's to the '07 Quad Meet

The FV MARC contingent enjoyed coffee and (chocolate) donuts at Judy and Keith's Model A Haven before locking Ty Warner Park into Keith's GPS unit. Marilyn and Butch and Jan and I had only to stay behind the Coupe, which did involve several "pink" traffic lights, and presto we were at the Quad Meet. Steve Stevenson had to flog his Suburban to keep up! The drive was uneventful, even with time for a stopover at church. That may be why Keith was able to find his lost camera! Ask Butch to tell the story. After lunch, Marilyn showed everyone how to BINGO!
